

James McNett AIA, LEED AP

Historic Preservation & Architecture

“My objective is to blend my interests in preservation, architecture, landscape and development to create projects, either new or adaptive reuse, that benefit the users of the space and the local community.”

A registered architect for more than twenty years, Jim McNett is an historic preservationist with a diverse architectural background. His past work includes residential, office, hospitality, landscape, education, transportation and urban design projects, producing a well-rounded background of experience. Jim strives to integrate the disciplines of architecture, preservation and landscape in every project so the designs will benefit current users and recognize the importance of the local history and architectural context.

Registered Architect in Washington and California

NCARB Certification

LEED certified

MS Historic Preservation, University of Oregon

Studied Architecture, UCLA

MA Russian Area Studies, University of Massachusetts